Objective

My objective is to find a position that keeps challenging my skill set in software development. I want to continue to learn more about new technologies with a focus to benefit the bottom line.

Bio

With nine years of experience in the technology sector, I enjoy every minute spent in development. I am self-taught in all the skills I have accumulated over the years. I started off in web development and got hooked to development. At first, I just did little favors for friends and family. Later I learned dynamic languages and started to do freelance web work. From there, my interests went towards software programming and eventually brought me to my current position as Senior Software Developer.

What sets me apart from the crowd

- My passion for learning. I absorb new things quickly and independently. I am able to figure out how things work and communicate it to others.
- Communication skills when working with a team. I'm very easy-going and handle feedback well.
- I can get into the end-user mindset to design and develop a great UI.
- I do have an iPhone, but I'm not a fanboy. I try to stay open-minded when it comes to mobile devices.
